

The Bexley Seabury Kellogg Leadership Institute was a profoundly stimulating offering. The faculty were engaging leaders who brought years of experience to bear, and it was clear that they were also passionate about sharing their knowledge with church leaders because they have personal commitments to serve Christ and his Church. The chance to meet new colleagues enriched the experience further. I'm hoping to be able to attend again, since the program changes each year.

A custom management education program for clergy and lay leaders with one of the nation's top business schools

*As religious institutions face rapid change and leaders strain to find perceptive and creative mentoring, Bexley Seabury's
Leadership Institute at the Kellogg School offers "water for parched throats," to borrow from the psalmist. What new word is there about the give-and-take of effective collegial leadership? Where better to hear it than from experienced business professors and leaders who care about best practices for religious institutions and agencies? This seminar will make you want to drink more deeply.*
