

for Spring 2015:

Moodle Shopping! and “self-enrolment”

What: Students now have the power and responsibility to add themselves to their Moodle courses. Also, during the drop-add period, you can gain access to any spring course’s Moodle page to see if you might want to add it or take it in the future.

Why this is awesome:

1. No waiting! Add yourself to your classes beginning 1 week before classes start. Also, you’ll have instant access to courses you add during the drop-add period.
2. You can “shop” for courses during the drop-add period, peruse sites, check out syllabi, etc.

Self-enrolment in Moodle ≠ registration!

You must register for a course through the Registrar’s office if you wish to participate in that course past the drop-add period.

How to “enrol” in courses on Moodle:

1. Log in to Moodle with your United user ID and password.
2. A menu of “Spring 2015 Courses” will appear in the center column.
3. Navigate to the course for which you registered, or a course you’d like to “shop” and click on it. If the course you’d like isn’t in the list, your instructor probably hasn’t made it available yet. Contact your instructor if it is not available by the first day of classes.
4. When prompted, click the “enrol me” button. When the page refreshes, you’ll be inside the course!

Moodle’s designers spell enrollment with only one L
because they are Australians!

At the end of the drop-add period, administrators will un-enroll you from any courses for which you are not registered.